Rådsklippan

A very good sport climbing crag with high quality routes for climbers of all levels. Rådsklippan has become our new course crag where we educate new climbers. The crag is a challenge for experienced climbers who climb the higher grades and climbers who want to climb longer (28 m) and easier routes.

Ingmar Pettersson's overhanging wall, earlier called "boulderväggen", has been newly fitted and cleaned. It is named after Ingmar who did much to develop the climbing in Västervik. The good thing about the wall is that it's most often dry after it has rained.

The 'Dansa med myggor' route, 7a, has become the Västervik climber's benchmark for grading. All grading of the higher grades is based on it.

Jim Wasmuth did the first onsight the same year as it was created.

The climbing pioneer Johan Luhr created the first 8a routes early on which raised the standard of the local climbing.

Getting there

The crag is located 38 km north west of Västervik. It takes 30 min to get there.

From Västervik follow the E22 towards Gamleby and then turn towards Överum. Pass the churchyard and turn directly left and continue on the gravel road. Be careful when it's raining.

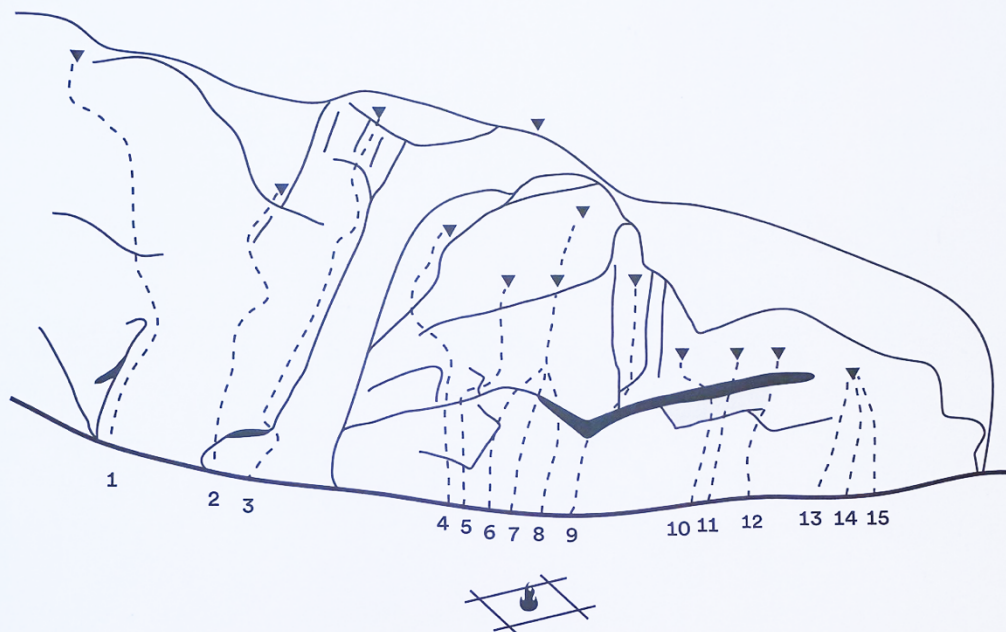

Park after 400 m. The crag is located to the right of the jogging track, about 250 m from the parking lot. It takes 2 min to walk from the parking lot to Ingmars Vägg.

There are two parking lots, the second one is located by the sports center. Before you arrive at the center of Överum, turn left at the first asphalt road and drive up the slope to the ridge, where you then turn left. Then you turn directly to the right and continue down the slope and you will have the sports center on your left. Park on the gravel to the left, in front of the grass-pitch.

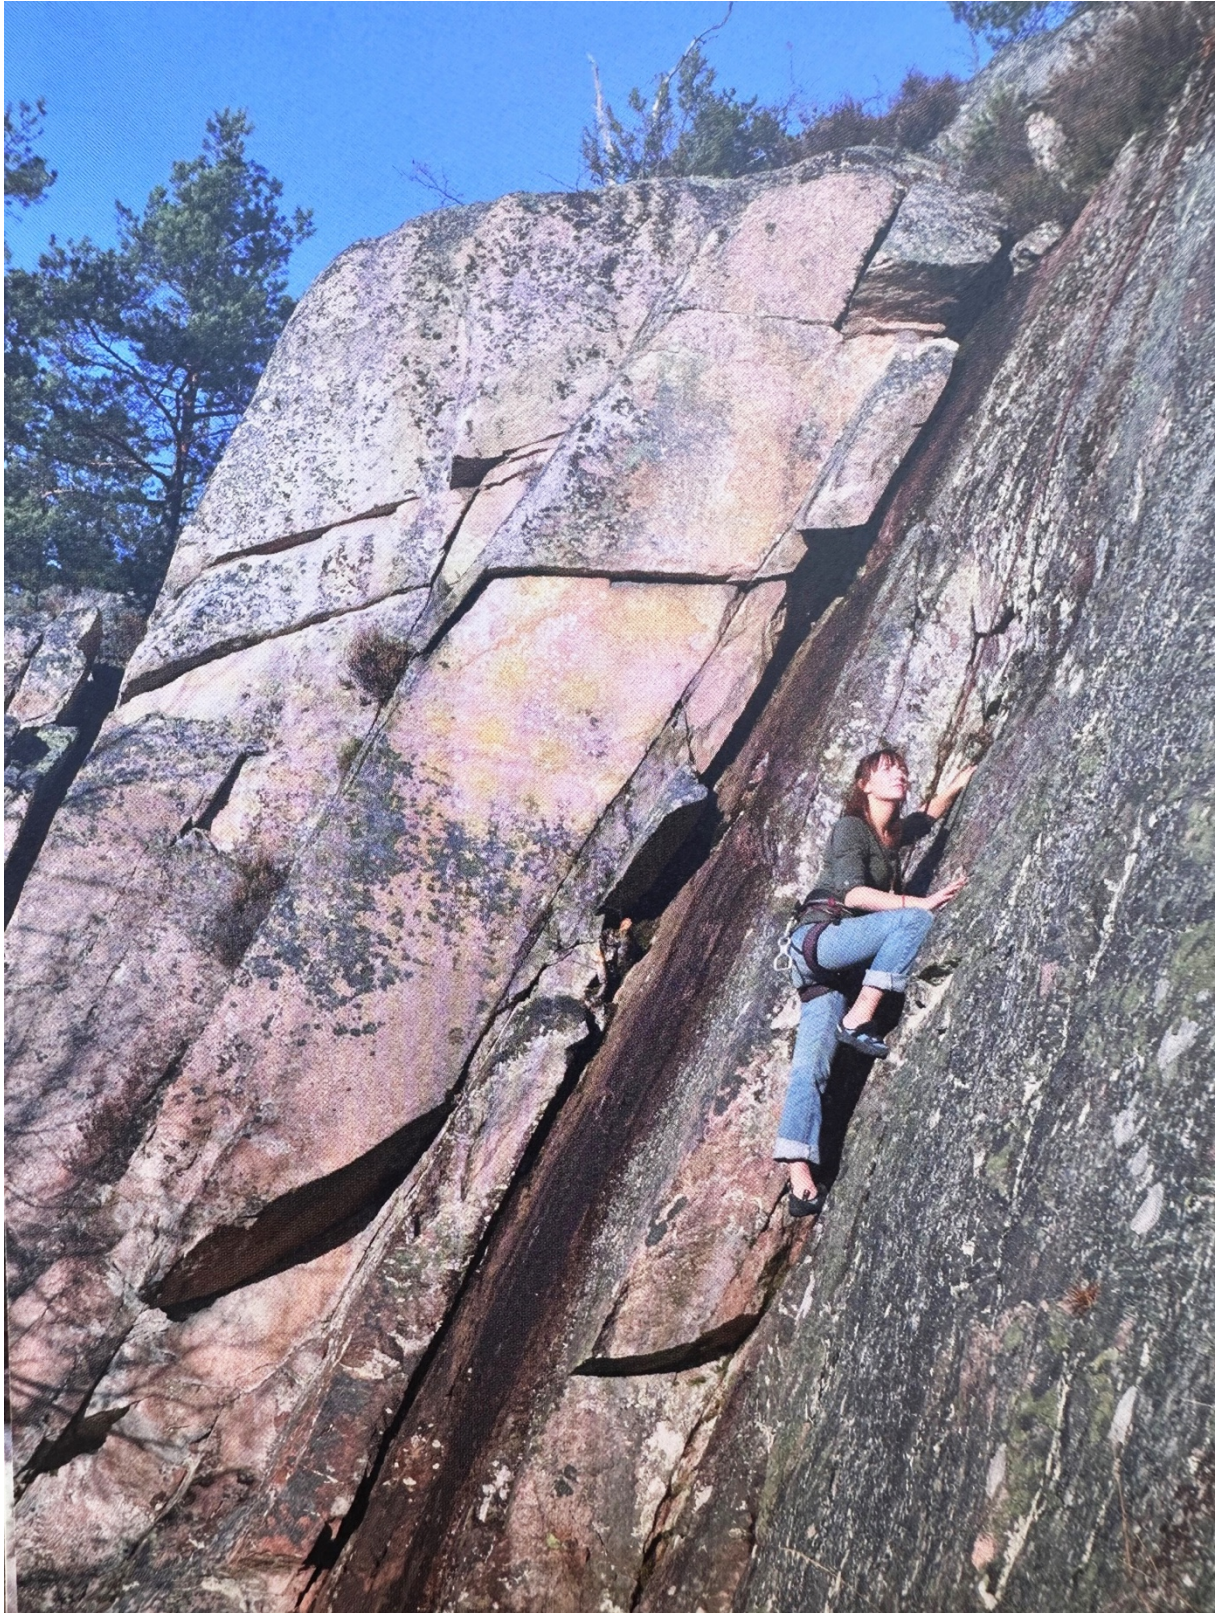

Follow the illuminated track downwards 300 m and you will arrive at Huvudväggen.
